RECORDS OF THE PROPRIETORS.

IN the early period after the establishment of the Colony of Massachusetts, the rapidly increasing population fed by emigration from the Old World, crowding into the few towns by the sea coast, created a demand and necessity for new settlements and a wider field of action. The restless and independent spirit of our ancestors chafed under confinement in narrow limits, and they longed to push out into the wilderness regardless of the dangers and hardships there to be encountered, to find homes where they could breathe the pure air of heaven and enjoy that liberty for which they had already sacrificed so much. The General Court, beset with appeals and petitions, having in some instances extinguished the Indian titles, but claiming authority over the whole tract of country, granted from time to time, to individuals and companies, lands for farms and townships, and thither flocked the sturdy pioneers to lay the foundations by a life of toil and self-denial, of those communities of which our Commonwealth is to-day so justly proud.

The persons to whom these lands were given, and those who were afterwards associated with them, were termed Proprietors. The grants of land were made subject to certain conditions, usually settlement and cultivation, the maintenance of Christian worship and the establishment of schools. These settlements were controlled for the first few years, by committees appointed by the General Court, and under their direction the land was surveyed; the lots laid out to meet the requirements of those who became residents; and the general welfare of the community insured. The committees were usually interested in the ownership of the place.

The organization of these companies of Proprietors was maintained for a considerable length of time, some of them existing during the early part of the present century. A record of their proceedings was generally kept, and after the incorporation of the place, continued separate and distinct from the town affairs. These Proprietors' Books constitute a part of the archives of many of the older towns in Massachusetts, though unfortunately, in some cases they have been lost or destroyed. Generally ante-dating by some years in their first entries, the records of the town proper, they furnish invaluable data for the groundwork of local history.

The Proprietary Records of Worcester are contained in one thick quarto volume of about 350 pages. They cover the period from 1667 to 1788, there being an hiatus from 1686 to 1713, during which time no records were kept. The earlier portions, owing to age, use and neglect, are worn and mutilated, and some of the leaves have disappeared. The record from the permanent settlement in 1713 to the year 1788, is preserved intact. This portion comprises the plans, of which there are nearly three hundred.<sup>1</sup>

The first grant of land located in the vicinity of Worcester, was made by the General Court of Massachusetts to Increase Nowell of Charlestown, May 6, 1657, and comprised a tract of 3200 acres. Five years later, 1000 acres were given to the church in Malden. October 19, 1664, 250 acres were granted to Ensign Thomas Noyes of Sudbury.

The right of Increase Nowell was subsequently transferred to John and Josiah Haynes of Sudbury, and Nathaniel Treadaway of Watertown, who with Thomas Noyes as proprietors petitioned the General Court for the appointment of a committee to explore the country and report concerning its advantages for a settlement. Accordingly, October 11, 1665, Capt. Daniel Gookin, Capt. Edward Johnson, Lieut. Joshua Fisher and Lieut. Thomas Noyes were directed to make the survey,<sup>2</sup> but the death of Noyes soon after, together with other circumstances, pre-

At a General court held at Boston the 24th of octoberr 1668

For a plantation at Quansikamud now Called wocester wee haue according to the Courts orderr (heirvnto anexed) [viewed the] place therrin mentioned and find it to bee about 12 miles from Marlborough nearre the Road to Springfeild and that [it is] a tract of very good Chestnut tree land, a large quantitie but [of meadow] wee find not so much, beecause a very considerable quantitee of [meadow] & vpland about fife thousand accers is laid out to parrticularr [persons] & confirmed by this court as wee arre informed which falls within [this] tract of land, vizt to Ensigne Noyes Deceased and his bretherren [three] thousand & two hundred accers, vnto the Church of malden one tho[usand] accers vnto others bought of Ensigne [Noyes] fife hundred accers: But [all this] notwithstanding wee conceue therre may bee enough medow forr a [small] plantation orr towne of about thirry families & if those farmes be anexed to it, it may Supply about Sixty families. Therrforre wee [deem] it expedient, That the honoured court wilbe pleased to reserue it fo[r a] towne, beeing conueniently scituated & wel waterred with ponds [and brooks] & lieing nearre midway beetwene Boston & Springfeild about one [day's] ioyrny from either, For the Setling wherof wee do offerr vnto [the] court that which followeth

- 1: That therre bee a meet proportion of land granted & laid out [for a] town in the best forme the place wil bearre about the [area] of eight miles squarre
- 2: That a prrudent and able Comittee Bee appointed and impo[wered] by this court, to lay it out, to admit inhabitants and orderr the affaires of this place, in formeing the towne, granting lotts [and] dirrecting & orrderrring all matters of a prudentiall nature. [untill] the place be settled with a sufficient numberr of inhabitants & psons [of] discretion to orrderr the affaires therrof in the iudgment of the cou[rt]
- 3: That due carre be taken by the Said comittee, that a good ministerr [of] Gods word bee placed therre, as Soone as may bee, that Such people [as may] therre bee planted may not liue like lambs in a large place

- 4: That therre be two or three hundred accers of land with a proportio[n of] meadow in Some conuenient place at the discretion of the Committee [reserved] and layd out, forr the comonwealth & the comittee to haue powerr & lib[erty] to Settle inhabitants therrvpon forr liues orr time vpon a smal Rent to bee paid after the firste Seauen yearres

On the 27th of May, 1669, a petition<sup>1</sup> was presented by the Committee praying the General Court to annul the grants previously made to the Malden church and to Thomas Noyes, and to relinquish the right of the Commonwealth to the meadow lands in the center of the town. The request in relation to the grants was refused, but the meadow was released.

Various obstacles now intervened and it was not until the year 1673 that the efforts of the proprietors were successful in effecting a settlement. The right of Thomas Noyes had been sold by his heirs to Ephraim Curtis of Sudbury, who had taken possession of a tract of about five hundred acres in the center of the place and erected a house thereon. This establishment interfering with the plans of the Committee in regard to the equitable division of the land, they again appealed to the General Court to aid them in overcoming the difficulty.<sup>2</sup> After a hearing, Curtis was allowed to retain fifty acres in the town, and in lieu of the remainder was given 250 acres in the general apportionment without the bounds of the place. The claim of the Indians was now to be adjusted, and a tract of land eight miles square was purchased, the consideration being twelve pounds lawful money. The deed bears date July 13, 1674.<sup>3</sup>

In April, 1675, the work of surveying the land

Some progress had been made in the settlement and a few buildings erected, when the breaking out of King Philip's war in the summer of 1675, put a period to further operations. The inhabitants abandoned the place in alarm, and in December following the buildings were destroyed by the Indians.

The war ended with the death of Philip in August 1676. The Comittee now exerted themselves to re-establish the settlement, but the fears excited by the recent depredations of the savage foe werè not easily quieted. The planters were urged to return, but "there was no going by any of them, or hope that they would do so: for divers of them being importuned to go would not." For several years the efforts of the Committee were without success.

At a meeting of the Committee and others interested, held at Cambridge, March 3, 1678,<sup>1</sup> the following agreement was signed, but it seems to have been barren of result:

In 1682 the Committee were notified by the General Court that the grant would be forfeited if some measures were not taken to re-settle the place. The necessity for decided action was now apparent, and Capt. Daniel Henchman having submitted a plan for accomplishing the desired result, after some delay an agreement was entered into as follows:

The Agreement Betwne the Committee for the plantation of Quansikamund Allius worcester vizt

Major General Daniel Gookin	}	The Comittee on the one [part]
Captaine Thomas Prentice &
Capt Daniel Henchman

And

Captaine Daniel Henchman & his copartners on the oth[er]

Is hearafter Recorded in this Towne Booke aco[rding] to couenant, as followeth

Boston Aprill 24th1684

By the Committee for the plantation of Quansikamon (Allius worsterr

Whereas the Honored Generall Court did in the yeare 1668 Appoint & impower S<sup>d</sup> Comittee to lay out the Said place to [the] contents of eight miles Squarre ; Admit Inhabitants, forme the T[own], Graunt lotts, and order all matters of a prudentiall nature vntill those who were dwelling there, sufficient to maunage af-fayr[es] as by record of S<sup>d</sup> Court may appearre,

And wherras S<sup>d</sup> committee in orderr to iust Settle[ent] of S<sup>d</sup> place, did not only purchase of the indians dwelling there & pak-achauge land to the quantity beefore granted as by de[ed] Record-ed may appeare, But also after much care paynes and charge for a long time, did in the yeares 74 & 75 peurre S[aid] planters to Settle there, who building after the manner of . . . . . werre not when the indian warr Brake forth ; able to defend th[em] Selues ; but quited the Sd plase to their owne and the countr[y's] great clammage

And wheras in the year 78, S<sup>d</sup> warr beeing ouer, S<sup>d</sup> Committee ordered [the] planters to returne to the Said place by the yeare 80 & bui[ld] together as to defend themselves : But there was no goeing by an[y] of them, or hope that they would So doe, for di-uers of them importu[ned to] goe, would not. And no other persons pesenting, the S<sup>d</sup> place was like to bee lost : for in october 82 : the Generall Court the[n sitting] Information was then giuen that if Something was not [done] to begin the S<sup>d</sup> place it would bee Lost.

Hervpon that the Said plantation might bee Secured, the first planters preailed with to ReSettle ; others encouraged to plant . . . . . publicke occasions provided for ; Recompenes made to them who ha[ve] laboured herin ; those rewarded y<sup>t</sup> Shall forward the Said plase, manufa[ctures] promoted ; the country aduantaged, Trauelers Accomodated . . . . . not any dammified that are Concerned. Daniel Henschman of the Said Committee, proposed on behalfe of himselfe [and] diuers in company with him seuerall things which if conse[nted] to by the Said Committee : would become vndertakers to begin the Settling [of] the Said place

Vpon this there were at Seuerall times diuers deba[tes] and Agreements betwixt the Said Comittee & S<sup>d</sup> Hen[chman] [14] as Aforesaid and at last a full conclusion made of all particulrs & herin after signed by S<sup>d</sup> Comittee & also by the Said Daniel Henschman on behalfe of himselfe & Said Comp as vndertaker as Affore-Said, and is to bee entered in the towne Booke on behalfe of all concerned & not to bee Altered but by consent of S<sup>d</sup> Henschman as affore

The foregoing records comprise all that remain in the Proprietors' Book relating to the first and second settlements of Worcester. From 1686 to 1700 but little is known of the proceedings of the inhabitants. It is not probable, however, that the town greatly advanced either in population or improvement, beyond what is evidenced by the preceding documents. The constant state of alarm and feeling of insecurity through fear of Indian attack, were the great drawbacks to the success of the undertaking; and when, near the close of the seventeenth century, outrages began to be perpetrated in the vicinity by the savages, the place was once more deserted by all save one, the sacrifice of whose life was the last scene in the sad drama.

The war known as "Queen Anne's" began in the year 1702 and continued until 1713. During this period little effort was made towards reclaiming the place. In 1709, a petition for aid in resettlement was presented to the General Court, but was not granted, the judgment of the Court declaring such an attempt inexpedient in the then disturbed state of the country. After the peace in 1713, another and successful effort was made, and from this time is dated the history of the permanent settlement of Worcester.

In Council

at a Great & General Court or Assembly begun & held at Boston on Wednesday the 26
of May 1714

The following report of the Comittee for Worcester accepted by the Representatives, Read & Concurred—

The General Court having been pleased by theirs of 21<sup>t</sup> October last to constitute a Comittee for receiving claimes of Such persons as are Interested in Worcester & for resettleing that Town

The S<sup>d</sup> Comittee do now humbly lay before this Honourable Court an acco<sup>u</sup> of what progress they have made therein—

after having posted up in this and other Towns printed notifications for persons concerned to bring in their Claimes, and having attended for four months time to receive the Same they made a journey up thither & allowed the claims of all who appeared to have been justly Interested there, and also admitted twenty eight persons more, to take up Lotts, Some of Twenty Acres, Some of thirty and Some of forty acres (as ¶ Schedule hereto annexed) upon condition that they pay twelve pence ¶ Acre for their planting Lotts only, towards the General charge of Surveying and laying out the Town the old Inhabitants having formerly paid the Same Sum, and upon condition that within thre years from this time, Each of them build upon their S<sup>d</sup> Lotts & occupy the Same for thre years at least from the time of their building, on penelty, that in default thereof they forfeit their Lotts, to be taken into the hands of the Comittee to be disposed of to others ; Which termes the new Grantees have readily consented to.

now in order to the accomodating the Community & that persons may sit down in Safety, the Comittee humbly propose—

1—That those persons who come in upon old claimes may be under the same obligations & penalties to Settle & inhabit, as the new Grantees are, they having taken their land on that condition.

2—That those persons who by purchase possess the rights of [35] Several proprietors may be deemed So many Inhabitants and Stand obliged to make So many Several Settlements.

3—Whereas there has been So many months given for persons to bring in their claimes and all endeavours used to gett Informations of former rights that the persons now admitted may Settle on any place whereto no claim doth now appear without being liable to be hereafter molested or outed by any pretending a prior right to the Same : and if any person Shal hereafter appear and make out his claim to any land so Settled upon he Shal insted thereof have so much as he can make out to be his right in some other land in the Town no person to be admitted to put in his claim after the Expiration of thre years from this time (Except Infants, feme covert, persons non compos mentis, Imprisoned or in captivity) who Shal be allowed thre years next after Such Imperfection removed to put in their claimes : the Same terme of three years to be allowed to persons beyond Sea, or that have an estate in reversion to any land there——

4—That the old claimes upon thirty dayes notice given them by the Surveyor apointed for the Town be obliged to show the bounds of their Lotts formerly laid out, or that otherwise he the Said Surveyor may proceed to the laying out Lotts to the new Grantees & what he Shal do therein Shal be valid.

5—That whereas they find the direction of the General Court in the year 1668 to then Comittee was to lay out two or three hundred acres of land for the Comon wealth, they desire the provision now made for the ministry, the first minister & the School may be accepted on that accompt : and where as the Comittee have already Spent So much time in Sitting to receive Claims, besides Their Journey thither [36] and have been considerably in advance of money and also Expect to have the care and trouble of S<sup>d</sup> Town possibly for Some years, and they find the former Comittee to have been interested in fourteen fifteen & twenty ten acre Lotts The several persons admitted having pitched already upon the places where they desire to sit down.

They pray there may to each of the present Comittee a forty acre Lott be granted (if the Hon<sup>b</sup> Court Shal So meet) to be laid out to them in the town where they can find a place not taken up ; together with a Right to meadow & after divisions, to be laid out in the land next adjoining in proportion to other proprietors, when Such proportion can be known.

The Comittee humbly Submit these proposalls to y<sup>e</sup> determination and consideration of this Honourable Court for their further direction
